

THE MELBOURNE
CLUB

Welcome to The Melbourne Club

At the heart of the Bocket Hall Estate, The Melbourne Club combines strength of heritage with beauty of innovation to offer world class facilities in an iconic setting.

Two pristine championship golf courses, a first class Golf Academy with its own classic par 3 practice course and state of the art swing studio complete with video suite, gives players of all ages and abilities the opportunity to play, develop and enjoy being at the top of their game.

A warm welcome will await our members and guests in the vibrant clubhouse. With stunning views across Broadwater Lake, the clubhouse is the focal point of The Melbourne Club.

From classically appointed locker rooms, complete with steam rooms and saunas for chillier days on the course, to a fabulous restaurant producing the finest dishes of the season and a relaxing bar with stunning views in which to celebrate the round of your life.

Challenging and beautiful The Melbourne Course

The par 72 Melbourne Course was opened in June 1992 and is the handiwork of design duo and former Ryder Cup golfers Peter Alliss and Clive Clark. Both Alliss and Clark have spent many years excelling in various areas of the golf industry, and their encyclopaedic knowledge of the game shines through as soon as you set foot on the course.

The course provides an enjoyable challenge in stunning surroundings, crossing the River Lea on four occasions as you follow the natural contours of the Estate, before a memorable finish in front of the Hall after a short ferry ride to the 18th green.

The Capability Brown inspired parkland can truly be experienced on The Melbourne Course, with the sweeping lawns, well placed trees and meandering river challenging golfers to think about each and every shot.

One of England's finest The Palmerston Course

Regarded as something rather special by its famed English architects Donald Steel & Martin Ebert, this course is one of the finest they have created. The Palmerston is frequently held up as a perfect example of a top quality golf course created with minimum intrusion to the site.

In contrast to The Melbourne, on the tree lined Palmerston you don't have to contend with the river at all; instead the Estate's ancient woodland of rare Hornbeam, Scots and Corsican

Pine and 500 year old Oak trees create some of the most spectacular hazards likely to be encountered on a golf course. Teamed with fiendishly placed bunkers and large undulating greens, this challenging par 73 is a great test and is rightfully rated as one of the best courses in England.

Practice in Perfection The Golf Academy
